We are committed to maintaining and improving our systems, policies and processes to protect human rights of staff and contractors, including providing protection against slavery and human trafficking.

The systems, policies, processes and procedures reflect our business' ethics and values. They set out our minimum requirements on the way we treat our employees, work with our customers, and suppliers in relation to governance and general compliance, workplace relations, occupational health and safety, ethical business practises and environmental management.

- Our Values
- Our Corporate Social Responsibility
- Our Code of Conduct
- Diversity & Equal Employment Opportunity Policy
- Whistleblowing Policy
- Employee Wellbeing and Support Policy

Our relevant processes and procedures include, but are not limited to the following:

- We monitor and review the effectiveness of internal policies and how these have been implemented across our business;
- We undertake supplier risk assessments and due diligence on proposed service providers;
- We have a range of policies and implement programs to support an inclusive workplace;
- Whistleblower Policy promotes honest and ethical behaviour by providing a framework for the escalation of reportable conduct.

Our Position

MASG is committed to maintaining and improving systems and processes to avoid complicity in human rights violations related to our own operations, our supply chain, and our products and services.

We understand that slavery and human trafficking can occur in many forms, such as forced labour, child labour, domestic servitude, sex trafficking, workplace abused and human trafficking.

We work proactively to reduce modern slavery and are committed to maintaining improving systems and processes to protect against and avoid complicity in human rights violations related to our operations, our supply chain, our products and our services,

We always take due diligence when considering taking on new suppliers and clients, and regularly review agreements with existing suppliers and clients. This is consistent with applicable laws, contractual and other obligations. It is also consistent with our fundamental principles and broader company policies.

As key part of supporting ethical standards is enabling our employees and others, including suppliers, subcontractors and partners to feel free and safe to speak up when there are reasonable grounds to suspect that we are not acting ethically or in accordance with laws and obligations.

Therefore, in this statement we use the terms "slavery and human trafficking" to encompass these various forms of coerced labour.

Training and Continuous Improvement

Our values guide our commitment, therefore MA Services Group ensures to continuously develop and facilitate refresher training to stakeholders to raise awareness on what modern slavery looks like, its impact on individuals, companies and society, the background to the Act, what MSAG is doing in response to the Act, how this will impact our supply chain and what staff can do to minimise the potential risks.
